VOLUME IX INDEX

NO. 1, FALL 1991 1-104
NO. 2, WINTER 1991 105-202
NO. 3, SPRING 1992 203-294
NO. 4, SUMMER 1992 295-408

A

Abuse: postseparation (study), 206-224; prior- and postseparation, 207-208, 213-216; response to, 209-210

Adjudication: and agreement compliance, 7-8; alternatives, 169; and full agreement, 7; vs. mediation, 6-8, 179-180, 192-193; and women, 205. See also Attorneys

"Adolescent Development and Family Dynamics: Delineating a Knowledge Base for Family Mediation," 309-324

Adolescents: adaptation/adjustment, 315-316; cognitive processing, 319; developmental stages, 311-313; and family dynamics, 313-316; and family mediation, 316-322; peer group conformity, 319; stress, 314-315. See also Children

Agreement: compliance with, 7-8; cost, 8-9; as end, 4; and fairness, 6-12; mediator pressure for, 5; rate as success, 6; and reframing, 5; satisfaction, 14-16; stability, 10

Alternative dispute resolution (ADR): attorney view, 87; and college-based conflicts, 343; and family systems conflict, 309. See also Mediation

Amundson, J., "Divorce Mediation in the Light of Cybernetic Explanation," 137-149

Articles: "Adolescent Development and Family Dynamics: Delineating a Knowledge Base for Family Mediation," 309-324; "The Boundaries Between Mediation and Therapy: Ethical Dilemmas," 107-119; "Community Benefits from Mediation: A Test of the 'Peace Virus' Hypothesis," 241-252; "Comparison of the American Mediation Process with a Korean-American Harmony Restoration Process," 325-341; "Divorce Mediation in the Light of Cybernetic Explanation," 137-149; "Gender Differences in Mediation Style and Their Impact on Mediator Effectiveness," 355-365; "How Mediation Can Effectively Address Male-Female Power Imbalance in Divorce," 227-239; "The Impact of Cultural and Religious Diversity in the Divorce Mediation Process," 297-307; "Judging the Fairness of Mediation: A Critical Framework," 3-20; "Mandatory Mediation: A Rose by Any Other Name," 33-46; "Mediation: A Social Exchange Framework," 121-135; "Mediation and Cultural Diversity on College Campuses," 343-353; "Mediation and Probation: The Presentence Investigation," 47-61; "Mediation and Public Policy: Variations on a Consensus Theme," 165-178; "Mediator Gender: Communication Differences in Resolved and Unresolved Mediations," 63-85; "Preseparation Abuse, Marital Conflict Mediation, and Postseparation Abuse," 205-225; "Reexamination of the Bar: Incentives to Support Custody Mediation," 21-31; "Sociological Explanations for Failure to Seek Sexual Harassment Remedies," 367-376; "Toward a New Discourse for Mediation: A Critique of Neutrality," 151-164

Attorneys: and alternative dispute resolution, 87; and court-based mediation, 23-29; and custody procedural reform, 24-25, 30; generated mediation, 260; in mediation, 26-27; review of mediated agreements, 194; role conflict as mediators, 110-112. See also Adjudication

B

Bargaining models (distributive/integrative), 357-358

Blumstein, E., "Who Nurtures the Nurturer? A Model of a Peer Support Group," 267-271

"Boundaries Between Mediation and Therapy: Ethical Dilemmas, The," 107-119

Brochures, 264, 273-274

Brown, E. M., "Sharing the Children: Easing the Pain of Divorce," 199–202
Bryant, S., "Mediation for Lesbian and Gay Families," 393–397

C

Change, cybernetic explanation, 140
Child custody: and child support, 195; and Jewish culture/religion, 302; joint legal, 192; and mediation vs. nonmediation, 184–186. See also Custody mediation
Children: abuse, 208; developmental tracks, 201; and divorce, 12–13, 200–201; of gay/lesbian relationships, 395–396; welfare, 12, 184–186. See also Adolescents
Cobb, S., "Toward a New Discourse for Mediation: A Critique of Neutrality," 151–164
Cohen, L., "Mandatory Mediation: A Rose by Any Other Name," 33–46
Collaborative problem solving, 165, 170–171
College-based conflict: and cultural diversification, 344–345, 391–392; and mediation, 345–352; resolution, 344–352, 391–392
Communication: actions, 65; family, 322; and formulations, 65–68; and mediation, 64–65; and mediator neutrality, 160–161; simplified view, 160; skills, 160; storytelling view, 160–161; verbal/nonverbal, 305–306
Community-based mediation: American procedure, 327–328; client roles/responsibilities, 330–331; and community organizational growth, 166–167; and community resistance, 166, 168; and environmental issues (case study), 171–172; final phase, 337–338; and foundation support, 168; future challenges, 175–176; goals, 329; and government collaboration, 169–172; and government support, 168; and homeless housing (case study), 167–168; initiation, 330; and Korean-American harmony restoration (study), 326–340; mediator role/preparation, 332–334; meetings, 334–336; solution generation, 336–337. See also Peer Mediation Program (PMP; Santa Monica, Calif.); Regulatory negotiation
"Community Benefits from Mediation: A Test of the 'Peace Virus' Hypothesis," 241–252
Community Relations Service (CRS) of U.S. Department of Justice, 389–392
"Comparison of the American Mediation Process with a Korean-American Harmony Restoration Process," 325–341
Compliance, 7–8
Confidentiality: lack of, 39; legislation, 28–29; and mandatory mediation, 36–39; in mediation, 28; mediator, 37–39; and probation-sponsored mediation, 55–56; standards, 29
Conflict: adolescent-family, 314–315; American concept, 328; college diversity, 344–345; emotionally negative, 131; gender differences in experiencing, 379–383; Korean-American concept, 328–329; managing parental, 201; and mediator role, 317–319; prevention, 392; reciprocating, 131. See also College-based conflict
Conflict resolution: and conflict management, 358–359; and emotion, 131; multicultural perceptions of, 326; and neutrality, 151. See also Dispute resolution; Marital conflict mediation; Mediation
Conflict theory, 121
Consensus building, 165
Couples. See Marriage; Relationships
Crary, D. R., "Community Benefits from Mediation: A Test of the 'Peace Virus' Hypothesis," 241–252
Culture, and mediation, 299–306. See also Multicultural concepts
Custody mediation: attorney support for, 23–29, 30; court-based (study), 22–23; ethical dilemmas, 115; mandatory, 36, 45; reform, 21–22, 25–26. See also Divorce mediation
Cybernetics: and calibration, 139; and change definition, 140; defined, 138; ethical value, 147; and mediative context, 142–146; philosophical basis, 146–147; and problem definition, 138–140; process, 141–146; and reality, 142, 146

D

Development: adolescent, 311–313; human, 310–311
Dewhurst, M. L., "Mediator Gender: Communication Differences in Resolved and Unresolved Mediations," 63–85
Diffusion research, and mediation, 242
Dispute resolution: community-based, 166–168; court-offered alternatives, 169; and government policy, 169–172; historical growth (study), 88–93; and homophobia/heterosexism, 400–402; legislative initiatives, 173–175; and mediation, 87; public domain, 166; publication patterns (study), 275–280; publications (by area), 280–294. See also Alternative dispute resolution (ADR); Conflict resolution; Mediation; Regulatory negotiation; Workplace dispute resolution
Divorce: and Christian culture/religion, 302–303; and coercion, 300; constructive guidelines, 199–200; costs, 9; as crisis, 233–234; effects on children, 12–13, 200–201; and Jewish culture/religion, 301–302; and marital roles, 234–236; and Muslim law, 300; and power balance/imbalance, 201, 229–238; and redefinition of self, 236; and remarriage, 202; right to, 300; and societal financial support, 196; and uncoupling, 236
Divorce mediation: and anger/hostility, 193; and children, 12–13; client satisfaction, 14–15; costs, 9; custody issues, 184–187, 192; and empowerment, 238; equity (study), 180–192; and expediency issues, 193–194; and feminism, 227–228, 238; and future college cost payments, 195; and gender-based financial issues, 195–196; and mediator role, 232–233, 237; models, 34; multicultural aspects, 299–306; and peer support groups, 267–270; and property settlement/alimony, 187–189; process, 231–232; psychological effects, 16–17; and relational development, 12–13, 126–129; and relationship quality, 192; and reliable client information, 194–195; and religion, 300–303; satisfaction/fairness in, 189–191. See also Custody mediation; Marital conflict mediation
"Divorce Mediation in the Light of Cybernetic Explanation," 137–149
"Dress Your Brochure for Success," 273–274
Dworkin, J., "The Boundaries Between Mediation and Therapy: Ethical Dilemmas," 107–119

E

Ellis, D., "Preseparation Abuse, Marital Conflict Mediation, and Postseparation Abuse," 205–225
Emotion: and conflict resolution, 131; and divorce mediation, 193; and social exchange theory, 130–131
Empowerment: and divorce mediation, 238; and mediator role, 270
Equity: divorce mediation (study), 180–192; in mediation, 129–130; and power imbalance, 131–132. See also Fairness
"Equity of Mediated Divorce Agreements, The," 179–197
Ethical dilemmas: court-referred examples, 114–115; and cybernetic explanation, 147; private referral examples, 112–114; response options, 114; with severely dysfunctional clients, 115–117
Ethical standards. See Standards

F

Fairness: and agreement compliance, 7–8; and agreement cost, 8–9; and agreement rates, 6–7; and agreement satisfaction, 14–16; and agreement stability, 10; as critical framework, 5–6, 17; and divorce mediation, 189–191; and efficiency of mediation, 9–10; external measures/factors, 6–12; internal measures/factors, 12–17; and justice accessibility, 10–12; and mediation vs. arbitration, 4; and mediator neutrality, 152; and needs of others, 12–13; perceptions of, 325–326; procedural and substantive, 4; and psychological effects of mediation, 16–17; and relational development, 12–13. See also Equity; Ethics

Family: adolescent conflict, 314–315, 317–319; communication, 322; dynamics, 313–318; gay/lesbian, 395; life cycle, 314
Family mediation: and adolescent-family conflict, 316–322; and family dynamics, 317–318; goals, 317, 322; knowledge base, 309–310; and relationship type, 128–129; with severely dysfunctional clients, 115–117
Feminism: definition/ideology, 227–228; and mediation, 229, 231; and pacifism, 358; and power, 231. See also Women
Formulations: characteristics, 66; defined, 65; functions, 66; gender-specific use, 69–70, 77, 79, 81–82; mediation functions, 67–68; mediator use of, 66–68

G

Gays/lesbians: and homophobia, 396; and mediation, 393–396; parenthood, 395–396; relationship issues, 394–395
Gender: and conflict experience, 379–383; differences research, 378–379, 385; and mediation, 70–82 (study), 205, 228–230 (study), 381, 383–385; and mediator style/effectiveness, 355–365 (study), 383–385; and negotiation, 380–383; and power issues, 229–237, 304, 381; and workplace disputing, 369–370. See also Feminism; Women
"Gender Differences in Mediation Style and Their Impact on Mediator Effectiveness," 355–365
Gwartney-Gibbs, P. A., "Sociological Explanations for Failure to Seek Sexual Harassment Remedies," 367–376

H

Hassles, prior- and postseparation, 210–211
Helm, B., "Publication Patterns in the Early Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1980–1985," 87–103; "Publication Patterns in the Growth Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1986–1989," 275–294
Hill, A., 367–368, 371–374
Homophobia/heterosexism: defined, 399; and gay/lesbian couples, 396; and mediation, 400–402
"How Mediation Can Effectively Address Male-Female Power Imbalance in Divorce," 227–239

I

"Impact of Cultural and Religious Diversity in the Divorce Mediation Process, The," 297–307
Interactive paradox, 154–155
"Invisible -ism: Heterosexism and the Implications for Mediation, The," 399–402

J

Jacob, L, "The Boundaries Between Mediation and Therapy: Ethical Dilemmas," 107–119
Jaffe, S., "Mediation and Public Policy: Variations on a Consensus Theme," 165–178
"Judging the Fairness of Mediation: A Critical Framework," 3–20
Justice: defined, 129; in mediation, 129–130; procedural, 325–326. See also Equity; Fairness

K

Klugman, J., "Negotiating Agreements and Resolving Disputes Across Cultures," 389–392
Knowledge base, mediation, 309–310
Korean-American harmony restoration process: and America conflict resolution (study), 326–340; final phase, 337–338; individual roles/responsibilities, 331–332; initiation, 330; intermediary role/preparation, 332–334; meetings, 334–336; profile, 327; solution generation, 336–337
Korean-Americans: conception of conflict, 328–329; harmony restoration procedure, 326–340; relationship goal, 329

L

Lach, D. H., "Sociological Explanations for Failure to Seek Sexual Harassment Remedies," 367–376

Leadership, transactional/transformational models, 357
LeResche, D., "Comparison of the American Mediation Process with a Korean-American Harmony Restoration Process," 325–341
Lindner, C., "Mediation and Probation: The Presentence Investigation," 47–61

M

"Making Mediation Services Work: A Market Perspective," 253–266
Mandatory mediation: background, 34–39; and child custody, 36, 45; and confidentiality, 36–39; and neutrality, 39; San Diego (Calif.) model, 40–44
"Mandatory Mediation: A Rose by Any Other Name," 33–46
Mandatory Mediation Act, 33, 34–35
Marital conflict mediation: outcomes, 217–220; and postseparation abuse (study), 206–224. See also Divorce mediation
Marketing. See Mediation marketing
Marriage: and power imbalances, 229–237; roles, 234–236. See also Relationships
Mastrofski, J. A., "Reexamination of the Bar: Incentives to Support Custody Mediation," 21–31
Maxwell, D., "Gender Differences in Mediation Style and Their Impact on Mediator Effectiveness," 355–365
Mediation: vs. adjudication, 6–8, 179–180, 192–193; agreement, 5–7; attorney-generated, 260; benefits, 263–264; business, 260; and child welfare, 12; and college diversity conflicts, 345–352; and communication process, 64–65; and community effects, 241–242, 249–250; and confidentiality, 28; and culture, 299–306, 326; and cybernetic process, 142–146; and diffusion research, 242; effectiveness conditions, 43; efficiency, 9–10; and emotions, 130–131; equity/fairness, 129–130, 417; four-step form, 254; and gender, 70–82 (study), 205, 228–230 (study), 381; governmental dispute, 259–260; and homophobia/heterosexism, 400–402; with homosexual couples, 393–396; insurance dispute, 258–259; and justice, 10–12, 129–130; and outside experts, 194; and power, 5; as preventative modality, 322; as quick fix, 5; research, 63–64; school (study), 242–251; with severely dysfunctional clients, 115–117; and therapy, 109–110, 116–117, 137; traditional, 34; training, 110. See also Alternative dispute resolution (ADR); Community-based mediation; Custody mediation; Divorce mediation; Family mediation; Mandatory mediation; Marital conflict mediation; Mediation marketing; Probation-sponsored mediation
"Mediation: A Social Exchange Framework," 121–135
"Mediation and Cultural Diversity on College Campuses," 343–353
"Mediation and Probation: The Presentence Investigation," 47–61
"Mediation and Public Policy: Variations on a Consensus Theme," 165–178
Mediation communication, 27
"Mediation for Lesbian and Gay Families," 393–397
Mediation marketing: attorney-generated, 260; and brochures, 264, 273–274; business, 260; governmental dispute, 259–260; insurance dispute, 258–259; and price setting, 261–263; and product planning, 260–261; and promotion, 263–265; and service vs. product marketing, 255–257; targeting, 257–258
Mediation theory: and Burns's structural theory, 127–129; and conflict, 121; Ericksonian, 122; feminist, 121; phase-theory perspective, 121; and relational stages, 126–127; social exchange, 122–132; social learning, 122; systems approach, 121. See also Cybernetics
"Mediator Gender: Communication Differences in Resolved and Unresolved Mediations," 63–85
Mediator neutrality. See Neutrality
Mediators: and adolescent-family issues, 316–322; and client anxiety, 304; communication skills, 160; community-based, 332–333; competence, 81–82; and concepts of time, 304–305; and confidentiality, 37–39; cultural/religious sensitivity, 299–306; cybernetic,

Mediators (continued)
146; dilemmas, 112–117; divorce, 232–233; and empowerment, 270; failure, 238; formulations, 66–68; gender differences 68–69 (study), 355–365 (study), 383–385; and justice accessibility, 10–12; and leadership models, 357; and negotiation/bargaining models, 357; passive, 4; peer support groups, 267–270; power, 232; pressure tactics, 5; probation officers as, 52; and probation-sponsored mediation, 56–57; and reframing, 5; role, 64; role conflict, 110–115; role switching, 108–109, 117; self-monitoring, 18; story facilitation, 161–162; training, 57–58; and uncertainty avoidance, 304

Meierding, N. R., "The Impact of Cultural and Religious Diversity in the Divorce Mediation Process," 297–307

Menzel, K. E., "Judging the Fairness of Mediation: A Critical Framework," 3–20

Millen, J., "Toward a New Discourse for Mediation: A Critique of Neutrality," 151–164

Multicultural concepts: of body language, 305–306; and college-based conflict, 344–345; of conflict resolution, 326; of divorce, 300–303; and negotiation, 389–392; of power imbalance, 303–304; of right to divorce, 300; of time, 304–305; of uncertainty avoidance, 304

N

National Institute for Dispute Resolution (NIDR), 87

"Negotiating Agreements and Resolving Disputes Across Cultures," 389–392

Negotiation: and bargaining models, 357–358; and gender differences, 380–383; multicultural, 389–392. See also Bargaining models; Regulatory negotiation

Neumann, D., "How Mediation Can Effectively Address Male-Female Power Imbalance in Divorce," 227–239

Neutrality: and communication, 160–161; defined, 116; and equidistance, 116, 152–153; and impartiality, 116, 152–153; and mandatory mediation, 39; paradox, 153–160; research lack, 151; and storytelling, 160–162

Neutrality paradox: case analysis, 156–160; defined, 153–154; folklore, 151–142 storytelling alternative, 160–152; structure, 154–155

Newland, L. M., "Adolescent Development and Family Dynamics: Delineating a Knowledge Base for Family Mediation," 309–324

O

Odom, S., "Publication Patterns in the Early Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1980–1985," 87–103

P

Parker, R. G., "Mediation: A Social Exchange Framework," 121–135

Pearson, J., "The Equity of Mediated Divorce Agreements," 179–197

Peer Mediation Program (PMP; Santa Monica, Calif.): assessment, 249–251; community effects, 242, 249–250; faculty/staff attitudes, 247–249; student attitudes, 244–247; study, 242–251

Perloff, S., "Dress Your Brochure for Success," 273–274

Phase theory, 121

Polychronic/monochronic concepts of time, 304–305

Power: and crises, 233–234; cultural influences, 303; defined, 229–230; and divorce, 230–231, 236–237; feminist view, 231; and gender issues, 304; imbalances, 201, 229–238, 303–304, 381; indicators, 232–233; mediator, 5, 232; and social exchange theory, 131–132

Presentence investigation: defined, 49; functions, 49–50; and mediation, 50–52, 58–59; process, 50

"Preseparation Abuse, Marital Conflict Mediation, and Postseparation Abuse," 205–225

Probation officers: and conflict, 47–48; as mediation referrers, 52–54; as mediators, 52; and presentence investigation, 50

Probation services: description, 48–49; and mediation, 52–58; work, 47–48

Probation-sponsored mediation: cases, 55; and confidentiality, 55–56; probation officer use, 52–54; referrals for, 54–55; and staff mediators, 56–67; training standards, 57–58
Procedural justice, perceptions of, 325–326. See also Equity; Fairness
"Publication Patterns in the Early Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1980–1985," 87–103
"Publication Patterns in the Growth Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1986–1989," 275–294

R

Reciprocity: Burns's typology, 127–129; norms, 125; rates of exchange, 125
"Reexamination of the Bar: Incentives to Support Custody Mediation," 21–31
Reframing, 5
Regulatory negotiation: areas, 172–173; defined, 172; and health issues (case study), 173. See also Negotiation
Relationships: and Burns's structural theory, 127–129; development, 12–13; gay/lesbian, 394–395; hassles, 210–211; Korean-American goal of, 329; power imbalances, 131–132, 201, 229–238, 303–304; quality and divorce mediation, 192; and social exchange theory, 126–127; and violence, 207–210. See also Marriage
Religion, and mediation, 300–303
Research and Practice: "Dress Your Brochure for Success," 273–274; "The Equity of Mediated Divorce Agreements," 179–197; "The Invisible -ism: Heterosexism and the Implications for Mediation," 399–402; "Making Mediation Services Work: A Market Perspective," 253–266; "Mediation for Lesbian and Gay Families," 393–397; "Negotiating Agreements and Resolving Disputes Across Cultures," 389–392; "Publication Patterns in the Early Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1980–1985," 87–103; "Publication Patterns in the Growth Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1986–1989," 275–294; "Voice, Place, and Process: Research on Gender, Negotiation, and Conflict Resolution," 377–388; "Who Nurtures the Nurturer? A Model of a Peer Support Group," 267–271
Review Essay: "Sharing the Children: Easing the Pain of Divorce," 199–202
Rifkin, J., "Toward a New Discourse for Mediation: A Critique of Neutrality," 151–164
Role conflict: attorney vs. therapist, 110–112; and ethical standards, 108–109; and mediation boundaries, 109–110
Role switching: attorney/therapist-mediator, 110–112; contraindications, 117; ethical dilemmas, 112–117; ethical standards, 108–109

S

San Diego (Calif.) mandatory mediation model: circumstances and parties, 42; contraindications, 42–44; local rules, 40–42; proposal, 40; reform, 44–45
Satisfaction: assessment, 15; divorce mediation, 14–15; mediation, 15–16
Scott, E., "The Boundaries Between Mediation and Therapy: Ethical Dilemmas," 107–119
Sexual harassment, Anita Hill case, 367–368, 371–374
"Sharing the Children: Easing the Pain of Divorce," 199–202
Social exchange theory: assumptions, 123, 124–125; and behavioral choice, 122–123; and Burns's structural theory, 127–129; and Comparison Level, 125–126; and Comparison Level of Alternatives, 126; and emotion, 130–131; and mediation, 122, 123–132; and norms of reciprocity, 125; and power imbalance, 131–132; propositions, 123–124; and relationship stages, 126–127; theorists, 122
Social learning theory, 122
"Sociological Explanations for Failure to Seek Sexual Harassment Remedies," 367–376
Spousal abuse. See Abuse
Stamato, L., "Mediation and Public Policy: Variations on a Consensus Theme," 165–178; "Voice, Place, and Process: Research on Gender, Negotiation, and Conflict Resolution," 377–388

Standards: changing, 117–118; mediator ethics, 108–109, 112–113; mediator/therapist role switching, 108–109
Stern, M., "Adolescent Development and Family Dynamics: Delineating a Knowledge Base for Family Mediation," 309–324
Story facilitation, 160
Storytelling: and communication, 160–161; and interpersonal interaction, 161; mediator, 161–162
Stuckless, N., "Preseparation Abuse, Marital Conflict Mediation, and Postseparation Abuse," 205–225
Support groups: discussion format, 269–270; forming, 268–269; theoretical rationale, 267–268
Systems theory, 12

T

Therapists: and mediation, 109–110, 116–117, 137; role conflict, 110–115; role switching, 108–109, 117;
Thomas, C., 367–368, 372–374
Time, concepts of, 304–305
Tokenism, workplace, 370–371
"Toward a New Discourse for Mediation: A Critique of Neutrality," 151–164
Townley, A., "The Invisible -ism: Heterosexism and the Implications for Mediation," 399–402

U

Uncertainty avoidance, 304
Uncoupling, 236

V

Van Slyck, M. R., "Adolescent Development and Family Dynamics: Delineating a Knowledge Base for Family Mediation," 309–324
Victim-offender reconciliation programs (VORPs), 47, 51
Violence: prevention, 216; prior- and postseparation, 207–210
"Voice, Place, and Process: Research on Gender, Negotiation, and Conflict Resolution," 377–388
Volpe, M. R., "Mediation and Cultural Diversity on College Campuses," 343–353; "Mediation and Probation: The Presentence Investigation," 47–61

W

Wall, V. D., Jr., "Mediator Gender: Communication Differences in Resolved and Unresolved Mediations," 63–85
Whitten, C. T., "Making Mediation Services Work: A Market Perspective," 253–266
"Who Nurtures the Nurturer? A Model of a Peer Support Group," 267–271
Wisch, P. B., "Who Nurtures the Nurturer? A Model of a Peer Support Group," 267–271
Witherspoon, R., "Mediation and Cultural Diversity on College Campuses," 343–353
Women: and mediation, 70–82 (study), 205, 228–238 (study), 381; mediation style, 358, 383–385; and negotiation, 380–383; and postseparation abuse (study), 206–224; and workplace disputes, 369–370; worldview, 382. See also Feminism; Gender
Workplace: gender issues, 369–370, 381–382; segregation, 370; tokenism, 370–371
Workplace dispute resolution: and gender issues, 369–370, 381–382; model, 368; and tokenism/racial issues, 370–371. See also Dispute resolution
Wright, J., "Publication Patterns in the Early Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1980–1985," 87–103; "Publication Patterns in the Growth Years: Dispute Resolution in the Psychological Abstracts, 1986–1989," 275–294